Chris Bryant

Chris Bryant delivers over 25 years of experience in environmental, health and safety (EHS) compliance and legislative, regulatory and policy issues. Clients benefit from both his extensive field experience at the implementation level and his extraordinary knowledge of how regulations, policies, and legislation impact business operations. When General Electric selected a handful of professionals to develop and deliver global leadership EHS training, Chris was at the top of their list.

For Bergeson & Campbell, P.C. (B&C) clients, Mr. Bryant provides a broad range of services. These include EHS compliance assistance, EHS management system development, assessment and implementation, and strategic development on EHS issues. He is a powerful advocate on federal, state, and international environmental issues, as well as with federal and state lawmakers. In all his efforts, Mr. Bryant approaches issues with the goal of resolution and a singular focus on how to best serve the client.
