

Diane McLevy

Operations & Account Manager
Association & Corporate Event Management (ACEM)

Diane is a seasoned event management professional with more than 25 years of experience in event operations and conference programming, including corporate sales meetings, large national and international multi-city consumer and trade industry shows, and high-level conferences for Forbes, and in various industries such as emergency medical services, wine/vintners, recycling, infrastructure, and travel to name a few.

Prior to joining ACEM in 2012, Diane most recently managed the conference programming for the Travel and Adventure Shows, booking speakers, performers, and culinary experts for the multiple stages at these national events. She has also helped with the launch of a new association, The Family Travel Association, organizing its annual industry Summit and taking on the role of Director, Membership Services.

At ACEM, Diane works with associations including Association for Corporate Growth, International Association of Claims Professionals, National Association of Corporate Directors, and others, and most recently the Institute of Hazardous Materials Management.

Diane holds both an AS and BS in Business and Marketing from Sacred Heart University.
