

Erika Winning, CHMM Bio

Erika is known for rolling her sleeves up to improve EHS standards across organizations. She excels in constructing EHS programs, conducting audits, and managing workers' compensation claims. Her knowledge base spans risk management, incident investigation, and designing OSHA compliance training.

Proficient in providing a 50,000 ft view for an executive audience, she's equally adept at hands-on issue resolution with the newest team member. Collaborating cross-functionally, she drives lasting safety culture changes through partnerships with quality, operations, CI, and legal. Noteworthy achievements include multi-site operations management and virtual compliance training integration across national and international markets.

As an IHMM board member, Erika expands her network while contributing to industry progress. She has a Bachelor's in Industrial Engineering and a roster of certifications including CSP, CIT, CHMM, CSHM, and RIMS-CRMP—demonstrating her commitment to continuous professional development. She shares insights at industry conferences, recently presenting at the BCSP Global Learning Summit, the Federation of Env Technologist conference, and ASSP's annual conference.

Outside of her work, you can find Erika outside running, reading a good book, or spending time with family.
